JESSE TREE

Preventing eviction & homelessness

A LETTER FROM OUR EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

2022 was another extraordinary year for Jesse Tree. Thanks to your support, we were again able to prevent evictions for a record number of families in our 24-year history.

Two years ago, the pandemic led the federal government to provide much-needed funding to address our housing crisis. The investments in rental assistance resources to prevent eviction was historic. Jesse Tree successfully administered $3.4 million of that funding over two years.

At the same time, the Treasure Valley community stepped up to help us keep people housed. For the first time, we felt an ability to grow to meet community needs for emergency rental assistance.

Rents continued to rise, which led evictions and demand for our services to increase even with unprecedented federal and community support. And now, those funds are expiring. As 2022 came to a close, we had to shrink our team and services at a time when the community needs us more than ever.

We are anticipating a surge of evictions in 2023 as many other pandemic protections expire. Even though we are anxious to see what this looks like, we will still show up every day to ensure tenants get the help that they need. Our success rates still show that over 92% of the people we support remain in housing, even in this difficult market.

We hope to keep homelessness from happening to renters at the forefront of investments being made. It is much more efficient and cost-effective to keep people housed rather than allowing homelessness to happen to Idaho.

We continue to believe that the Treasure Valley can be different from other American cities that have failed to manage the problem of homelessness. Let's work together this year to keep the traumatic, life-altering experience of eviction and homelessness from happening to our neighbors and community.

1,682 Volunteer hours contributed

"Since 2020, our call volume has increased by 555%."

Our Tenant Resource Center continues to provide support, information, and educational resources to tenants at risk of eviction. Because we can't support everyone who asks for help with emergency rental assistance, we provide what information we can to empower people to avoid eviction.

Since 2020, our call volume has increased by 555%. Most of our calls continue to be fielded by our team of 20 dedicated community volunteers, who handle between 3,000 and 4,000 calls for help each month. They talk tenants through their crisis, provide them with information and resources, and submit their financial assistance application to Jesse Tree.

EMERGENCY RENTAL ASSISTANCE (ERA)

Case management coupled with rental assistance has been our bread and butter since Jesse Tree was founded 24 years ago, and is one thing that has never changed. In 2022, we supported more tenants than ever before. What sets our Emergency Rental Assistance (ERA) program apart is that we couple financial assistance with case management. Our case managers work tirelessly to ensure that each client leaves us with the tools they need to avoid eviction, but also to stay housed in the long-term.

Nearly all the tenants we supported in 2022 were in the legal eviction process and had received a three-day notice. We supported those families to avoid eviction court, homelessness, and a permanent eviction on their records.

90% of all private donations go directly to emergency rental assistance for families who need it through the ERA and Eviction Court Assistance (ECA) programs. We will continue to expand our efforts to scale the ERA program, and to provide a hand up to as many families as we can in 2023.

When we met Kyle, he and his fiancé had recently parted ways. He had fallen into a downward spiral and experienced job loss and depression. He didn't know what to do and ended up checking into Intermountain, as he feared he was a danger to himself. While he was a patient, he received a 3-day notice from his landlord. It was challenging at first for Kyle to ask for help, but after working with our case managers to regain control of his life he was able to catch up on bills and find a new job.

"I'm planning for the future in a way that wasn't possible a year ago."

EVICTION COURT ASSISTANCE (ECA)

Despite the availability of temporary COVID funds for homeless prevention, evictions continued to rise across the state of Idaho.

Our team showed up to court every week to intervene in as many cases as possible. We resolved nearly a quarter of all cases through our Eviction Court Assistance (ECA) program.

We strengthened our partnerships with the courts. Legal interns continue to support our work through the Housing Clinic. Our collaboration with Idaho Legal Aid has allowed us to connect tenants to more holistic support.

Most of the work we do in court is funded by private funding, which allows us to resolve cases quickly.

COMMUNITY HEALTH

All of the tenants Jesse Tree serves are being evicted due to their temporary inability to pay their rent. Of those, about 25% of people can't pay their rent because of an issue with health care. Our case managers were struggling to adequately serve this vulnerable population to meet all of their needs. To address this problem, in 2022 the Blue Cross of Idaho Foundation for Health provided us with funding for a Community Health Worker (CHW) for two years, and we officially launched our community health program.

After we prevent eviction for clients, our case managers can now internally refer clients to the CHW when they need more intensive support. The CHW provides clients with referrals to needed resources and one-on-one help with accessing benefits or overcoming other barriers which prevent them from addressing their health issues. From April through the end of the year, the CHW supported around 60 clients and referred them to a multitude of services and local resources. This program has been a game-changer for the more vulnerable clients we serve, allowing us to provide them with more long-term, needed support.

SECURITY DEPOSIT ASSISTANCE (SDA)

Our Security Deposit Assistance (SDA) program fills a gap in services for the community by helping tenants find a new place to live. Oftentimes, people enter our shelters after staying with friends or family or in a hotel/motel. We provided SDA to this vulnerable population and other Treasure Valley residents who were looking for housing. Our team developed this new program over the last two years. We were able to help 186 families find a fresh start in 2022.

While this program was incredibly valuable to our community, 2022 is the last year we will be able to provide this service to the public due to our COVID funds running out. Our limited budget in 2023 simply doesn't allow for us to continue funding this program.

After Debbie was evicted, she spent nearly a decade unhoused with her dog, Pup-pup. She was crashing on a friend's couch when she applied for security deposit assistance with Jesse Tree. We were able to get her into a new place of her own she can afford.

She now grows her own lavender and has started a business making and selling soap. Even though Debbie has recently been diagnosed with some health issues, she says she's not worried because she has a roof over her head. She knows she can take care of herself as long as she has a home.

"I was emotionally, physically and spiritually depleted."

FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

Some funds raised in 2022 will help replace the loss of $2,046,103 in government funding in 2023 compared to 2022.

91% of our overall expenditures were spent on programs.

CORPORATE AND FOUNDATION SPONSORS

In the past, being able to provide support for this many families was a dream. But this year, thanks to continued community support and our temporary government grant, we were able to have our biggest year in Jesse Tree's 24-year history. Thank you to all our donors for being part of this great work.
